WHAT PERRY SAYS.

He Knew the Difference.
Edward, having been refused another baked potato on the simple but convincing ground that three were no more, according to the New York Sun, made some uncomplimentary remark about the insufficiency of his dinner.

"This isn't dinner," corrected the aunt whom he was visiting. "This is luncheon. You don't eat dinner in the middle of the day. You eat that at night."

The next day the aunt, being anxious to know if Edward had assimilated his lesson of the day before, said:

"Edward, can you tell me now the difference between dinner and luncheon?"

"You bet I can," said Edward promptly. "Lunch is the meal where you don't get enough to eat."

Robert A. Miller was born April 18th, 1829, died at his home at Horse Branch, Ohio county, Kentucky, August 12th, 1909. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. G. Stewart, after which interment took place at old Salem burying ground. Mr. Miller was a native of Ohio county and had spent a lifetime near the place of his death. He was a man of the highest integrity, loved and respected by his neighbors and friends and in fact, all who knew him. "Uncle Bob" as he was familiarly called, was known far and wide as a friend of all. He was married twice, his first wife being Miss Nancy J. Rale, and his second Mrs. B. T. Knox, who was a native of Ohio county, but at the time of their marriage lived in Missouri. Mr. Miller was a devout Christian, though not a member of any church. He leaves a widow and the following children to mourn his loss: Mrs. G. R. Brady, Irvington, Ky.; William A. Miller, Millwood, Ky.; and John P. Miller, Louisville, Ky.
